Bicroft seeks township status

Trustees of the Improvement District of Bicroft have passed a by-law requesting the Ontario Municipal Board to grant the District full township status and Bicroft officials are hoping the move may come in time for municipal elections to be held in Bicroft this fall.

The by-law was finalized after several hours of public debate on the issue at a public meeting in Bicroft June 15. A crowd of eighty district residents voiced concerns and raised questions about the implications of the proposed change during the two hour session.

According to a representative of the Ministry of Municipal Affairs, who fielded questions at the meeting along with Board of Trustee members, the principal change involved in the move will be the election of a 5-member municipal council, possibly as early as this fall. The Improvement District has been governed by a three-member Board of Trustees since its formation on January 1, 1958.

The by-law has now been handed over to the Ministry for approval - a mandatory step in order for an Improvement district to pass a by-law - and Bicroft secretary-treasurer Sandra McColl expects the document to reach the Ontario Municipal Board by July 1. Barring extensive objections to the move from district residents, the township status could be conferred by the Board in eight weeks, which would allow Bicroft to participate in the November municipal elections.

According to Bill Howe, chairman of the Improvement District's Board of Trustees since January of this year, the township status for Bicroft is long overdue. "The creation of the improvement district was all tied up with the opening of the Bicroft mine, which closed in 1964. We now have the population and the resources to assume full township status, and this is the route we're going," Howe said in an interview following the Tuesday meeting. "It is most definitely a step ahead for the district. With responsible leadership, there is no reason we cannot move ahead to full township status," he added.

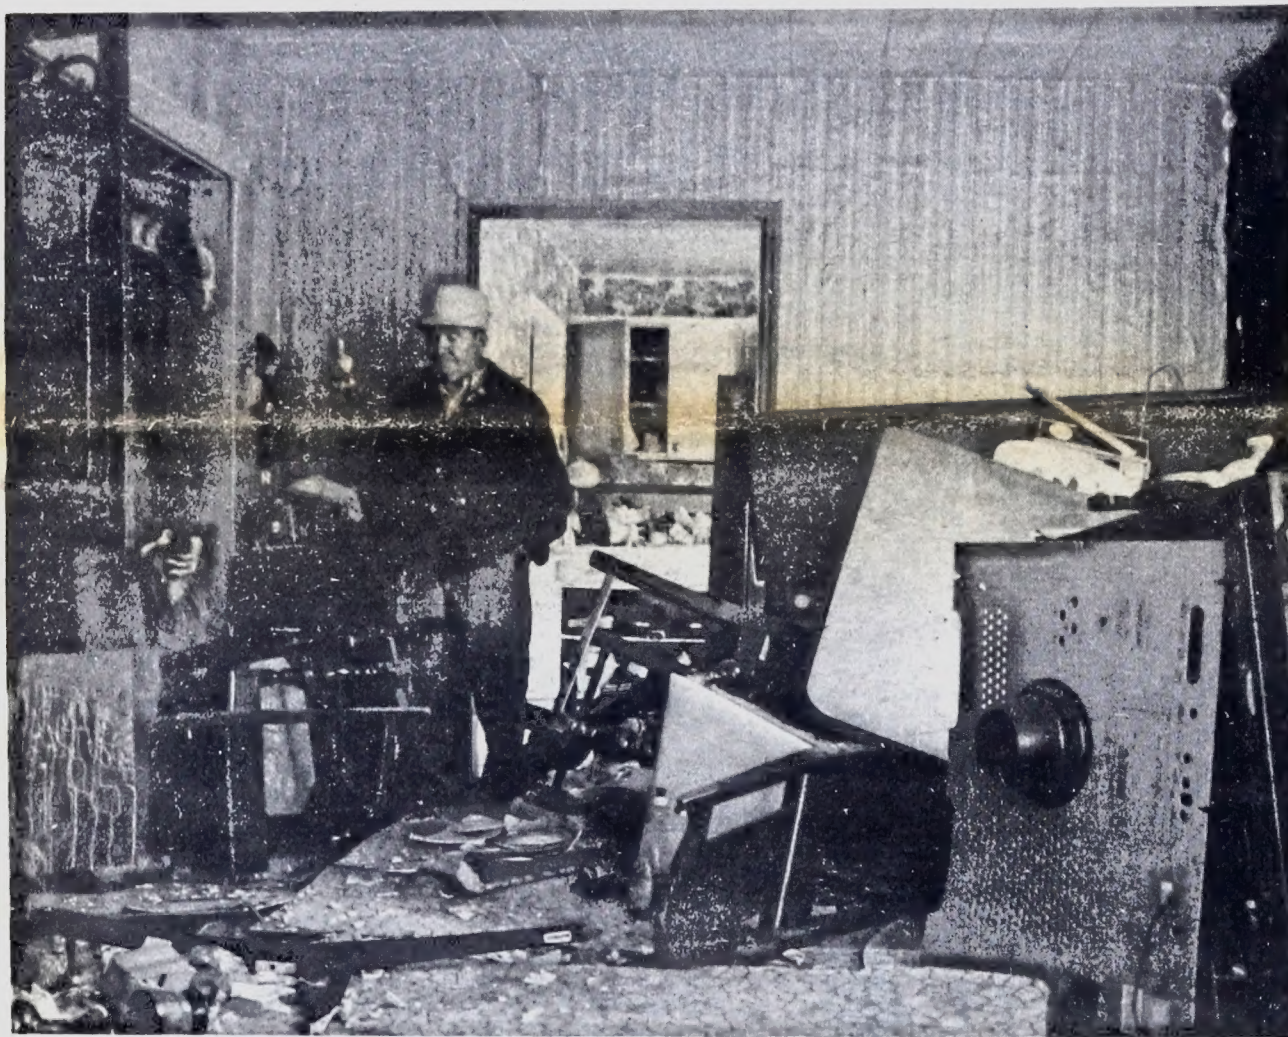

While many residents who attended the public meeting last week expressed concern that the new status would mean a rise in taxes, Howe says any increase would be a nominal one. "There will be the additional cost of salaries for two council members, besides the three trustees who receive salaries now," Howe explained, "but under the present system the cost could be borne by an increase of roughly 2 mills in general government taxes, which is a very small amount," Howe said.

Some residents have also said that they are satisfied with the administration of the district as it presently stands, and that they see no reason for the change. According to Howe, however, the idea of township status was generally "quite well received. There is a very positive feeling about the move in most cases," Howe said.

The current Board of Trustees in Bicroft is made up of Howe, vice-chairman W.J. Todd and trustee A. O. Easton. Members of the board are appointed by the Treasurer of Ontario. The new township status would allow Bicroft residents to elect a five man council, consisting of a reeve and five councillors. Secretary-treasurer Sandra McColl would then become clerk-treasurer, in keeping with other municipal administrations in the county.

Norm Harrison surveys the damage in his living room following a propane gas explosion Tuesday evening. The man escaped unscathed from the blast that left every room in his house a shambles.

Man survives propane blast

"I guess it just wasn't my time to go."

Those were the words of Norm Harrison Senior as he surveyed the jumble and mess that had been his home in Ingoldsby. The building in which he had lived since the early 1940's was rocked with an explosion Tuesday evening (June 15) that left the interior of the home and all Mr. Harrison's possessions in a shambles.

Miraculously, Mr. Harrison, 78, was uninjured in the blast which caused one wall of the building to be thrown 18 inches out of line.

Mr. Harrison recalls the events leading up to the explosion. "I was standing in my living room shortly after 7 o'clock. I noticed that the house was a bit cool and damp so I went to turn up the thermostat to take the chill out of the air. The next thing I knew I was sitting on the floor and everything in the house had been tossed around like toys."

The analogy was only too true. In the living room virtually all the furniture was tipped over by the blast. The television set, the back off the cabinet shattered, lies in a heap. Gouges in the ceiling tile above where the television once stood graphically depict the force of the blast. The same is true of a heavy china cabinet. Its contents spilled onto the floor, the ceiling above it scarred where it struck.

In the middle of the living room the hardwood floor has been lifted out of place. The individual slats are spread wide apart and through the cracks one can peer down into the basement.

Virtually every room in the house contained some damage from the blast. The kitchen is a shambles with dishes, food, pots and pans scattered about.

The blast, which occurred in the basement knocked all the bricks off the exposed chimney on the roof. Windows on the first and second floor were shattered, many of the panes broken into shards.

Interestingly, the largest window in the house, a picture

Robertson sawmill destroyed by fire

Robertson sawmill, on Highway 121, just east of Minden was destroyed Thursday in a blaze that caused damages estimated at $80,000.

The fire, which officials believe was caused by welding equipment, broke out shortly after 2 p.m. Thursday while several employees were working at the yard. The business was not insured.

Twelve firefighters from the Minden Fire Department battled the blaze for nearly three hours Thursday afternoon, but could do little but contain the fire from spreading to the surrounding area.

"By the time we were called, the building was so engulfed that all we could do was attempt to contain the fire," Deputy Fire Chief Don Booth said Saturday. The Minden department saved a tractor and loader from damage, Booth said.

According to Fire Chief "Deke" Jackson, the fire is believed to have been started by an employee using welding equipment inside the building which housed lumber at the site. "We're not sure exactly how it started," Jackson told The Times Tuesday afternoon, "but we feel the welding torch ignited something in the vicinity."

Booth says that the Minden force responded to the call within 12 minutes of receiving the call. Both the tank and pump trucks from the Minden Department were used to fight the blaze. Auxillary pumps were fed into a pond at the site and used to refill the truck.

Booth says the nature of the building at the Robertson site gave firemen little chance to save the structure. "The building was constructed of metal siding clad on rough lumber; you don't have much of a chance to fight that kind of fire," Booth said.

Booth added that the pager system worked well on the call to Robertson's. Of the twelve firefighters who fought the blaze, ten arrived on the scene within three minutes of the call coming in on the pagers.

Provisional status report presented objections still being raised

Haliburton county council has been given a closer look at the implications of dropping its provisional status, but the final message from Queen's Park is still that the county must take the initiative in suggesting the conditions of the change.

At its last meeting of the summer, held Wednesday at Kilcoo Camp in Lutterworth, county council listened to a presentation by Senior Policy Advisor Ted Foster of the Ministry of Municipal Affairs on the effects of the change. Foster's report, which was received with a mixture of enthusiasm and skepticism by the 19 member council, outlined potential changes that could result if the county goes ahead with plans to draw up a new Haliburton Act to give the county full county status.

Foster addressed the Kilcoo meeting as an advisor to the budget committee of the county council, the group which has been investigating the repercussions of dropping provisional status for several months. He told the meeting that, while he has discussed the move with top level civil servants at Queen's Park, he has been told by Minister of Municipal Affairs Claude Bennett, "nothing will take place without the concurrence of county council. It is not a provincial initiative to remove the provisional status; it must come from the county," Foster said.

Foster's report to council addressed four areas of concern; the Improvement District of Bicroft, Education grants to the county, courthouse and jail systems, and the unorganized townships of Lawrence and Nightingale, which were assumed from the county by the province for the formation of Algonquin Park in 1910.

Foster told the group that, since no existing county includes an Improvement District such as Bicroft, the dropping of provisional status would provide an opportunity for Bicroft to assume full township status, a move which as already been endorsed by the Bicroft Board of Trustees. Foster suggested that the switch to township status would bring Haliburton county administration in line with that of other full counties in the province, while providing Bicroft residents the opportunity to elect a municipal council.

Foster told the meeting that the idea of township status for Bicroft had a "very favourable response" from members of the public who attended the meeting June 15 to discuss the move with the Board of Trustees and a representative from the Ministry of Municipal Affairs. A by-law requesting the Ontario Municipal Board grant Bicroft township status was passed at the meeting, and now awaits approval from the Ministry before being reviewed at the OMB.

Northern townships

Another significant change outlined by Foster at the Kilcoo session was the fate of the townships of Lawrence and Nightingale. A provincial policy in place when Algonquin Park was formed in 1910 stipulated that only unorganized townships could be assumed by the province for provincial parks. Since that policy has now changed, Foster said, the two townships could feasibly be returned to Sherborne, McClintock and Livingstone. The municipality they belonged to before the park was formed. According to Foster, while the townships would not be removed from the park, a new grant could be introduced by the province to compensate Sherborne, McClintock and Livingstone. Foster also suggested that the two townships could be placed in the District of Nipissing, the district to which other townships in the park now belong.

Sherborne reeve Fred Baum was enthusiastic about the possibility of Lawrence and Nightingale being returned to Haliburton. "There very well could be monetary gain if we get the two townships back," Baum emphasized to council. This will definitely benefit the whole county," he added.

While the return of Lawrence and Nightingale to Haliburton County could result in more grants for the county, the new status would not necessarily involve the formation of a county judicial system. Although most counties in the province operated their own court systems, special provincial legislation can allow the formation of special judicial districts, such as that which currently exists for Victoria/Haliburton.

Similar legislation can create the same system for county jail systems, an agreement that allows Victoria and Haliburton counties to share jail facilities in Lindsay. Foster told the meeting that in all likelihood, the existing agreement between Haliburton and Victoria for jails and judicial systems would remain in place. "I have talked with officials at the Solicitor General's and the Attorney General's offices, and they are happy with the system as it exists now," Foster said. In response to a question from Monmouth deputy reeve Carman Coumbs regarding a possible court house, Foster added that the provincial officials are "not about to gouge out and build a court house."

Educational grants

Education grants again emerged as the most controversial issue surrounding new county status for Haliburton. Foster assured councillors that Ministry of Education officials have guaranteed that grants to the Haliburton Board of Education will not change, but he was challenged on the point by Snowdon reeve Bob Vick and Lloyd Walker of Anson, Hindon and Minden, the two reeves wanted confirmation of Foster's statements in writing. Vick told Foster that he "had no proof" the grants would not change, and Walker agreed, saying he was not sure how far Foster's statements would "hold water" without a written guarantee.

Foster concluded his remarks to council by telling the group that he is available to meet with individual municipal councils to review the full implications of the change. He added that Haliburton's provisional status, because it is the only one still existing in the province, is considered an anomaly by officials at Queen's Park. "There were a number of provisional counties in the province at one time," Foster said, "but they've since assumed full county status. The feeling at Queen's Park is that there must be something peculiar to the area if it has remained provisional for so long." (Haliburton was declared inaugurated as a provisional county in 1874, 108 years ago.)

Warden Ron Gambell, meanwhile, added to Foster's remarks that the county's provisional status was "a bit of a joke" at Queen's Park, a sentiment to which Foster nodded agreement during Gambell's comments.

Child revived after accident

A two and a half year old child is listed in unstable condition following a lakeshore accident Wednesday evening.

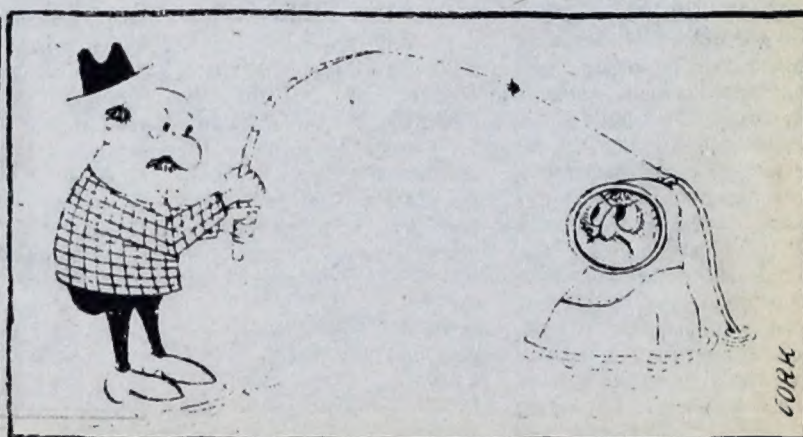

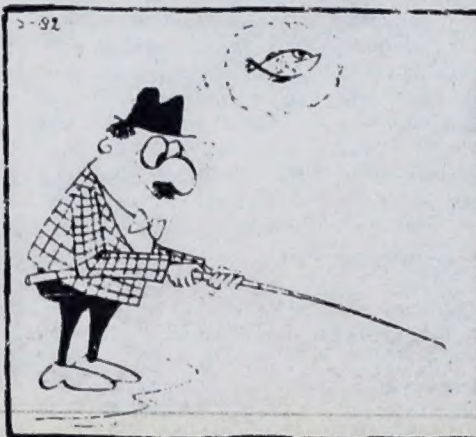

The youngster, Daniel Chorpeza, was staying with his grandparents, Donald and Mary Cudworth at a cottage on Denna Lake, Lutterworth Township. The child slipped out of the house following dinner and was located minutes later face down in the water at the end of the dock.

The child was pulled from the water and, assisted by his mother, Helen Cudworth, Donald Cudworth applied artificial respiration. The child was brought by ambulance to Minden Red Cross Hospital where he was treated by Doctor Antony Holliday-Rhodes. The youngster's breathing started again and the patient was transferred to Lindsay hospital and later to the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto.

As of Monday, doctors held out little hope for the youngster's recovery.

It was smiles all round Friday as the new home of the Haliburton County Home Support Services was opened in Haliburton. Dysart Reeve Murray Fearrey and County Warden Ron Gambell officiated at the ceremony with the help of Doris McCann, chairman of the Home Support Services. The office is located in the Dysart Drag River municipal building. The opening was the highlight of Senior Citizen's Week celebrations in the county.

Councillors challenge Ministry official on education grants

A senior policy advisor for the Ministry of Municipal Affairs has informed Haliburton County Council that no education grants will be lost if the county moves to drop its provisional status, but two members of council will still not accept the official's word that the grants are secure.

Ted Foster of the Ministry's Queen's Park office told the meeting at Kilcoo Camp Wednesday that he had assurance from the Ministry of Education's director of Education grants that the 6% grant subsidy to Haliburton County would remain in place if provisional status should be dropped, but Foster was challenged on the statement by both Snowdon reeve Bob Vick and Minden reeve Lloyd Walker, who told Foster that they wanted the statement "in writing" before they would believe education grants would remain the same.

"Haliburton, Muskoka and Parry Sound are considered semi-northern areas by the Ministry of Education," Foster told the group during a half hour presentation Wednesday. "The 6 per cent grant is given to Haliburton because it is Haliburton, not because it is a provisional county. It is based strictly on the location of schools and the geographic configurations of the county," Foster assured the group.

Both Vick and Walker, however, were skeptical of Foster's word. "You have no proof," Vick told Foster during a question period following Foster's report. "I don't see a letter from Bette Stephenson putting it in black and white," Foster responded to Vick's statements by saying bluntly, "When the Minister of Education tells me something, sir, I listen. I do not ask her to put it in a memo."

Walker echoed Vick's concerns in an address to Foster during the session. "I agree with Mr. Vick," Walker told the Ministry official. "I want this thing in writing on paper. Verbal conversation is all right, but I don't know how far it will hold water." In response to a question from Warden Ron Gambell, Walker said after his remarks to Foster that, "if we have nothing to gain by the change, why not remain as we are?"

It appears, however, that both Walker and Vick are acting contrary to the wishes of their respective municipal councils by expressing reservations about the change. Following a request by County Warden Ron Gambell earlier this year, both Snowdon and Minden councils submitted letters endorsing the move to drop provisional from the county title. Monmouth reeve Keith Tallman, whose municipal council was one of three that refused to endorse the change, told the Wednesday meeting, "In my municipality, my mandate was not to support the dropping of provisional status. I am not in the position to support something that is against my mandate." Tallman told the meeting, however, that in the light of Foster's statements on the implications of the change, he would like to "take the issue back to municipal council" for further review.

Cardiff and Glamorgan townships were the other townships to vote against dropping provisional. Neither Cardiff reeve Malcolm MacGillivray nor Glamorgan reeve Ken McGuire had questions for Foster Wednesday.

Stanhope reeve Jim Harrison, whose letter to Queen's Park inquiring into the fate of education grants caused must dissent at county council and some surprise at Queen's Park in February of this year, emerged an outspoken supporter of the change at the Kilcoo Camp session. Following Walker's remarks, Harrison assured the Minden reeve that, "Provisional was added to our title to allow assistance from the province with respect to the railway. At this point in time it does not apply." Harrison, who was himself fearful of the effects to education grants when he wrote to the Ministry of Education in February, went on to tell Walker that education grants can be safeguarded in the new Haliburton Act before it is approved by the province, thus guaranteeing that they will not be affected by the change.

A matter of trust

It has been over a year now since county politicians have been toying with the question of Haliburton's provisional status. In that time a council committee has probed the details of the changeover and, in the past few months, the county has been able to use the services of a provincial civil servant. Ted Foster, of the ministry of inter-governmental affairs is an expert in matters relating to municipal government. He has examined the ramifications of dropping the provisional status and, in a report to the council last Wednesday, outlined his findings.

Several key issues were explained, including grant structures, the impact on the Bicroft Improvement District, possible financial benefits for the municipality of Sherborne, McClintock and Livingstone and other matters. Foster emphasized that Haliburton County Council will set the terms for the change. Nothing will be "rammed down the county's throat."

Of particular interest was Foster's statement that education grants will not be adversely affected by the change in status.

Two members of county council chose to challenge this assurance. Snowdon Reeve Bob Vick and Anson, Hindon and Minden Reeve Lloyd Walker felt the promise that education grants will continue at a present level must be in written form before it can be considered legitimate.

Earlier this year we expressed concern about the status of education grants. In particular we were concerned that insufficient investigation had gone into the possibility of reduced provincial support for the county's education services.

However, we feel Foster's assurance that the grant level will not be reduced should be accepted by the councillors. His knowledge, background and experience gives his report authority that county council could never hope to reach through its own means. Demanding a written assurance despite Foster's report, indicates a serious lack of trust in the efforts of this dedicated civil servant. It also serves to throw another time-wasting road block into the process of change.

Finally, as pointed out earlier, the council will set the terms for the change in status. Having the final say will give the council ultimate control over the future of the county.

It's time to get on with it.

Youth jobless rate hits 16.4 per cent

- by John Eakins, M.P.P. -

The Interim Report of the Liberal Task Force on Jobs for Youth, chaired by John Sweeney, M.P.P. for Kitchener - Wilmot, was released on June 16. Latest unemployment figures available are those for May, which show that 186,000 young people between the ages of 15 and 24 are jobless. This represents 15.4 per cent of the youth in the labour force.

Since it was formed March 23 this year, the Task Force has discussed the growing problem of youth unemployment with young people, educators and representatives of business and industry. The Interim Report lists 12 alternatives recommended to, and supported by, the Task Force.

These alternatives include more training opportunities for the unemployed which would allow them to meet skilled manpower demands, particularly in the new technologies, when the economy improves; incentives and/or a legislative requirement to encourage on-the-job training by Ontario industry;

a restructured apprenticeship program to permit easier job access and reduce the current high dropout rate; and a realistic and concerted attempt to change the public conception of the value and importance of skilled trades.

to remove the existing "stigma" of blue collar work.

Also recommended: improvement of the present counsellor to student ratio of 1:400, and in-service opportunities for counsellors to keep abreast of changes in business and industry; introduction of career counselling in elementary school; re-evaluation of the secondary school curriculum, and mandatory core subjects such as English, Mathematics, and Science to ensure that young people are equipped to be flexible and adaptable in today's changing labour market; particular stress on importance of female students continuing with Maths and Sciences.

by Ron Reid - Federation of Ontario Naturalists

The largest known nesting colony of great blue herons, near Dunnville, Ontario has been destroyed by an irate landowner. Worse still, the destruction took place with knowledge and assistance of the Canadian Wildlife Service, the agency that is supposed to protect our wildlife.

Migratory birds, such as the four-foot-tall herons are theoretically protected by a federal Act, which prohibits harrassment of nesting birds or interference with active nest. But the same law allows a landowner to protect himself from financial loss. These provisions had been used by grain farmers to prevent waterfowl from feeding on their crops, but Dunnville farmer David Topolinsky took advantage of this loophole to scare the herons off their estimated 450 nests in his woodlot this spring. Since the herons twist branches from mature trees for nesting material, and can eventually kill trees with their excrement, they were lowering the commercial value of Mr. Topolinsky's woodlot.

After being told that he couldn't legally cut trees containing heron nest, Topolinsky reacted by scaring away the birds with bangers, the noise-making devices used to keep birds away from fruit trees or other tender crops. Federal authorities cooperated fully, even lending CWS bangers to a neighbour who also wanted to avoid heron problems. Apparently, the Canadian Wildlife Service has now given Topolinsky permission to cut the trees as well.

Topolinsky did have an alternative. The Federation of Ontario Naturalists had offered him $10,000 plus an annual payment to leave the trees standing, but the owner refused to even negotiate towards an acceptable offer. At least a hard-headed farmer striving for every dollar can be understood in these tough times. What is harder to understand is a government agency that appears to abandon its responsibilities at the first hint of opposition. If any of Canada's heronries are to be safe, we need stronger regulations and much better enforcement to ensure their protection.

Hai karate--- haute cuisine

Though its basis is a study of philosophic form, Kung Fu can sometimes seem indistinguishable from its more aggressive counterpart, Karate. While Kung Fu can be associated with graceful and contemplative movement close to that of Tai Chi, Karate conjures images of fists assaulting bricks and feet rearranging faces. When the Minden Health and Fitness Club teamed up with members of Wong's Karate from Orillia Saturday in Minden, the demonstration took in both realms, from the serene to the severe.

No less than 140 people crammed the parish hall of the Anglican Church in Minden Saturday night, to enjoy a feast of oriental food and a display by Minden and Orillia proponents of Kung Fu.

Before feet and fists started flying up stairs, the guests gorged on a prodigious quantity of Beef Chop Suey, Fried Rice, Mushroom and Chicken, Pork Chow Mien Sweet and Sour and Garlic Chicken Wings. The sampling of Oriental cuisine was prepared for the club by Marion Lodenquai and Don Nye.

While the 22 members of the Minden club performed a number of basic Kung Fu techniques for the crowd, members of the Wong's Karate Club in Orillia spiced up the demonstration with techniques from Shurin Ryu Karate, the kind studied and practised by the Orillia group. Under the leadership of Sensei (the title of a Karate Master) Gil Gauthier, the group demonstrated a number of traditionally scary Karate manoeuvres, from a sparring match marked by several more-than-close calls, to the classic board breaking technique, that, like the Karate sparring, yielded an unexpected fat lip.

The evening's demonstration got under way with Kung Fu. Led by club organizer Gary Stephenson, members of the Minden club performed the basic Kung Fu punch, block and kick techniques. Sparring was performed by Kendal Mintz, Jason Stevens and Jay Hewitt, and Sensei Gauthier and wife Sue teamed up to destroy several perfectly good pieces of 2-by-12's with their feet and hands. The Sensei's demonstration was not without a slight hitch - his wife was caught off guard while holding one of the three boards that Gil bashed in a single flurry, and left the room temporarily, subtly holding her nose. Even though her chin streamed with blood after the unscheduled biff from her husband, Mrs. Gauthier was nonplussed, and returned a few minutes later with a subtle shake of the fist for Gil.

During the speed section of the event, Chris Holliday-Rhodes, Aaron Hie, Nick Holliday-Rhodes and Jarrett Gentle all demonstrated their dexterity with the Kung Fu pebble exercise, where a pebble is held out by one student while his partner attempts to snatch it away. Also in the speed section, Tina Hie, Nick Holliday-Rhodes, Greg Hewitt and Justin Gentle demonstrated the Paper Punch; here participants test their speed by executing Kung Fu punches on falling sheets of construction paper.

Perhaps the most passive aspect of the demonstration was also the most beautiful to watch: the execution of the Kung Fu forms, Dragon, Snake, Crane, Tiger and Leopard. The forms amount to a series of movements and positions, each characteristic of the animal from which they take their name. The movements are extended to form the basis of a mode of self defense; the crane, for example, while essentially a passive creature, fights by means of a particular series of stances, which are both protective and frightful in nature.

The Nunchaku, a pair of short sticks joined by a chain, were handled with impressive speed by Kendal Mintz, and the Lin Bo, a long straight shaft reminiscent of the quarter staff of Little John, was demonstrated by Sensei Gil Gauthier.

In its more brutal moments, the art of self defense can cause startling examples of offence as well. While demonstrating sparring methods with fellow club member Dave Salisbury, Sensei Gil Gauthier came a little too close with a kick and caught Mr. Salisbury squarely on the noggin. Salisbury reeled slightly, Gauthier offered profuse apologies once he had ascertained that his partner's head was intact, and the two went at it again with equal vigour to complete the demonstration.

Even though some Orillians were probably seeing spots on the drive home, the demonstration was well received by the Minden group that watched the activities. The evening was the second annual for the club, and the good response from Minden should help provide another prosperous year.

from the chamber

by Bob Stinson

Don McGillivray, in a column in the Hamilton Spectator, came up with some astonishing figures that indicate how burdened we Canadians are becoming with government.

The average Canadian worker produces about $32,400 worth of wealth in a year. The Federal Government, however, will need about 16.7 billion dollars just to pay the interest on its debt. That means it would take 515,400 Canadians working full time just to pay that interest.

The spending estimates for the coming year total 76.3 billion dollars which amounts to $145,000 per minute. John Crosbie was defeated on a budget that estimated $131,000 per minute for this same time period.

With the civil service sector now reaching 439,000 it requires the work of another 2,614,000 Canadians to support them. That means that the efforts of over 3 million people are required just to keep this government going. Think of that as the combined populations of British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland, seven provinces doing nothing else but working to keep Ottawa in business.

The last time Canadians faced this kind of a government burden was just after the Second World War. What's the excuse this time??

Highlands weather reports begin

Beginning the first week in July, radio and T.V. stations across Ontario will be able to contact a new toll free number in Haliburton County to obtain a 20 second updated weather report. The reports will be on tape and subsequently used in the station's program schedule to provide the public with valuable information on local conditions. In addition, of course, it will provide our region with badly needed exposure through the media.

The idea for this program was brought back from Myrtle Beach by Elgin Stouffer who reports it is very successful there. He and a committee have been working hard to get the plan operational for the coming season and are now ready to go as soon as the Bell Telephone has the special Inwats telephone line installed. When you note some of the very considerable discrepancies we have had in weather between here and other Ontario centres during the past month it indicates how appropriate this program may be.

Chamber newsletter coming

The Chamber will have a newsletter going out in July to bring members up to date on what has happened or about to involving the Chamber. It is now possible to place advertising in this Newsletter for a very nominal fee and have exposure to our 350 business operators. For rates and details call the Chamber at 286-1760.

Hot line for small business

If your business is facing what appears to be an unfair application of regulations or red tape is strangling it there is now a new federal service to help. Call the "Small Business Hotline" collect at 613-995-9197. They claim that you will be provided with either a solution or further assistance to your problem with 5 days of your call.

Welcome summer visitors

The long awaited summer season is upon us and we, as you, have been preparing to welcome them. Travel counsellors Susie Wingat and Linda Booth will be augmenting our regular Chamber staff and Brenda Fearrey will be assisting Ev Perrin at the caboose in Haliburton Village. Both centres will now be open 7 days a week for the summer.

Cardiff will also be operating their booth in the log school house on Highway 28 with municipal employees. All members of the Chamber are invited to display advertising materials in our centre and any business may take advantage of the municipalities' booths.

The Central Ontario Travel Association are putting together a co-op advertising promotion for mid-July to encourage those last minute bookings. This has been done because many operators have indicated they may still have openings. Watch for details on this shortly if you are in this category.

The U.S. visitors that are being enticed across the border will be looking for the extra value their dollar can bring them. It's an advantage we can offer them and it is sincerely hoped that all of you will provide fair exchange on U.S. funds. If in doubt, check with your bank for the current exchange rate.

Now all we need is some co-operation from the weather-man.

Bicroft wants to be newest township

Bicroft would fall into line with the dropping of provisional status by the county, an issue that has undergone much debate at council in past months. Since there are currently no Improvement Districts in counties of full county status in the province, township status in Bicroft would streamline county administration in preparation for assuming full county status, which sources say could come as early as this fall.

When asked if he intends to run this fall in the event of an election for Bicroft, Howe, who has been reappointed to the Bicroft Board of Trustees three times by the provincial government in the last five years, said, "It's too early to tell at this point."

Broom crowd to stroke greens

Members of the Minden curling fraternity will find their brooms are useless and that they can leave their sliders at home this Thursday.

Club members will be taking part in a golf tournament at Beaverbrook Golf Course.

Organized by the members of the senior curling club, the event is open to all curling club members including afternoon and evening league participants. Tee off time is set for 1 p.m.

For more information on the tournament, club members can contact Ed Pettinger.

— NOTICE —

The Municipal Offices for the Townships of Anson, Hindon & Minden will remain open on Dominion Day (July 1st) for the convenience of the ratepayers.

The Municipal Law-Enforcement Office only will be closed on Monday, July 5th.

The explosion Tuesday night at the Harrison residence sent things flying. Outside his kitchen window, Norm Harrison found his salt and pepper shakers and other kitchen items hurled through the pane by the force of the blast.

House a shambles following explosion window set in the wall that was blown out 18 inches, was one of the few to escape the fury of the blast. The frame is pushed out from the wall, just as the wall juts out from the foundation, but the largest sheet of glass is still intact.

Outside, as he walked around the house, Mr. Harrison found items that became virtual missiles when the blast occurred. Resting on the front lawn, soggy after a night outside, a globe sits upright. By the kitchen window the home owner collects the salt and pepper shaker, jar of jam and other items which were hurled out of the house.

Investigation

An investigation carried out by the Ontario Provincial Police and Allan Noseworthy of the Fire Marshall's Office has revealed that the explosion was caused by propane. Mr. Harrison used propane for cooking. When he turned up the thermostat the spark from the furnace ignited the gas.

The authorities believe that a leak developed in the propane line a week or so earlier when the outdoor television aerial was struck by lightning. Some 18 inches underground, the television mast and the copper propane feeder line were in contact and the lightning charge could have resulted in the hole in the line.

The investigators speculate that the propane seeped through the basement walls eventually filling the lower level until it was set off by the furnace spark.

Several of Mr. Harrison's neighbours, visiting Wednesday morning to offer their assistance, recalled hearing what they believed to be thunder the evening before at the same time as the explosion. One recalled looking out his window and, noticing the gathering clouds, thought the noise had come from an approaching storm.

A number of minor fires resulted from the explosion and these were quickly extinguished by the Minden brigade. The firefighters were on the scene for a number of hours following the initial blast to ensure the area was safe from further explosions.

Mr. Harrison, who rents a number of cabins on his property during the summer, was busy Wednesday morning making arrangements to ensure the out buildings will have electrical power and water, services that were once supplied through his home.

A lucky person indeed, Mr. Harrison escaped with a sore neck from a blast that virtually destroyed his home. As he pointed out, it just wasn't his time to go.

Plan appraisal underway

Haliburton County Council moved closer to a County Official Plan last week when it passed a resolution appointing the Toronto firm of Municipal Planning Consultants to investigate potential terms of reference for a County Official Plan.

Planning Committee Chairman and Glamorgan reeve Ken McGuire told a meeting of county council last week that the cost of the new appraisal will not exceed $15,000, and that provincial funding of up to 75 per cent may be provided.

The planning appraisal is intended to outline policies in the Official Plan of Dysart municipality that could be used toward a county Official plan, while identifying aspects of the county Development Strategy that could also be incorporated in the proposed document. The appraisal will also consider planning issues that fall under the control of the municipal zoning by-laws in the county.

According to county clerk-treasurer Win Lahay, Municipal Planning Consultants were chosen for the appraisal because they drew up the Dysart Official Plan and have already begun considering what aspects of the plan could apply to a similar plan for the county. Lahay said Thursday that terms of reference for the appraisal will be drawn up by the company and approved by county council before being submitted to the Ministry of Municipal Affairs for approval of funding.

Lahay also said that Municipal Planning Consultants have assured the county that the cost of the appraisal will be "well under" the government funding limit of $15,000. If the appraisal should cost more than that amount, government guidelines stipulate that the contract for the appraisal must be made available through public tender.

Lahay said the terms of reference for the appraisal are expected to be ready for review by council by its September meeting, which she feels bodes well for the long push towards a County Official Plan. "We're getting closer to acceptance of the idea all the time, because more municipalities are seeing the value of an Official Plan", she said. Some smaller municipalities in the county have argued that they would not stand to benefit from an Official Plan, while they would have to share the cost burden of establishing the document.

How many dogs make a pack?

How many angels can dance on the head of a pin? The question that fascinated philosophers in the nineteenth century has a modern day counterpart in Haliburton county. A new question of equal philosophic intrigue was raised by councillors at last week's meeting held at Kilcoo Camp. The issue: how many dogs make a pack.

Warden Ron Gambell's answer - a six pack - was the most concrete suggestion made during the debate that raged for nearly a quarter of an hour at the county council's last meeting before the summer break, but Gambell's incisive thinking did little to bring the issue closer to resolution at the Wednesday session.

On the verge of passing a resolution to prohibit using dog packs to hunt bear during the spring season, the issue of how many dogs make a pack flared up anew just as the matter was raised, and the question has now been referred to the MNR for deeper philosophic investigation.

Sherborne, McClintock & Livingstone reeve Fred Baum told the meeting that American hunters have been using packs of as many as twenty dogs to hunt bear in the township this spring. Baum said that ratepayers in his municipality have been complaining about the practice, which they feel may pose a threat to weakened deer and moose herds during the spring season.

Baum proposed a resolution banning the use of dog packs during the spring bear hunt in Haliburton county, and while most councillors shared his concern for moose and deer populations, many were reluctant to support a motion that could hurt the financial benefits of American hunters coming to Haliburton for the spring hunt.

Baum also suggested to council that methods used by the American group could be so effective that bear populations could be endangered. "This group has conducted hunts all over the States," Baum told the Wednesday meeting. "They use sophisticated equipment such as radio transmitters on their dogs' collars. The way they hunt, there won't be a bear left in the county in two years."

Glamorgan reeve Ken Maguire disagreed. "I think the bear are overpopulated right now," Maguire responded to Baum's fears. "I don't agree with wholesale slaughter, but I don't think they've seriously depleted bear populations." Maguire added that two days after the same group had completed a hunt in his township, he counted eight bears in the vicinity of his home in Glamorgan. Maguire shied away from the obvious issue underlying his observations; had he in fact seen a "pack" of bears in Glamorgan?

Monmouth Deputy Reeve Carman Coumbs concurred with Maguire, saying that he wouldn't want to see American hunters cut off altogether, but Baum pressed on with his resolution, writing up a request to ban the use of "large packs" of dogs in the spring hunt.

Cardiff Reeve Malcolm McGillivray was quick to point out that "large pack" needed clarification before the motion would have any credence. Lutterworth

Deputy Reeve Glynne Lewis suggested banning the use of any dogs whatsoever, and Warden Gambell, obviously troubled by serious philosophical flaws in the motion, twice suggested that the matter be referred to the MNR for clarification. But Baum's concern finally held the day, and a resolution was passed supporting Sherborne's concern.

So how many dogs make a pack? No one at county council could say for sure, and even the sagacious Murray Fearrey, overcome by the deep existential angst in confronting the issue, finally buried his head in his hands. Now it appears that the issue will have to be resolved through philosophic debate by the MNR. It's undoubtedly a question of deep concern to anyone who has ever speculated on how many birds make a flock, how many geese make a gaggle, or even how many whales make a pod.

There is nothing like greeting the opposition with a smile, and it is certainly much easier to grin when your team is on top. Nancy Maughan, pitcher for Haliburton, delivers to a Minden Dixie Lee Seniors batter. She led her team to a 13-11 victory in the Thursday night game played in Minden.

Challenge issued to 'boys in blue'

We, the lovely ladies of the Minden Senior Softball Team do hereby challenge the Fearless Gentlemen of the Minden OPP detachment to a friendly and farcical game of softball.

You are invited to pick any Sunday afternoon for the contest, and we propose splitting any proceeds between the Minden Senior Ball Club and the charity of your choice, (private side bets excluded).

Of course you are expected to attend the event in full OPP regalia or any attire suitable to a proper lady of this day and age.

Members of the ball club have discussed restrictions and have decided upon the following:

1. No 38's, handcuffs, billysticks, etc...
2. No ringers (swat team, OPP psychologists, etc...)
3. High heel shoes shall be of the non-spike variety.
4. All athletic supporters will be limited to a 3 inch diameter and will be measured prior to the first inning.

Health Unit first to receive accreditation

The Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge District Health Unit has become the first public health unit in the province to receive official accreditation for the quality of health services it provides.

The announcement was made June 9 at the health unit's annual staff day in Cobourg. Keith Tallman, chairman of the Haliburton District Board of Health, was on hand to receive an official Certificate of Accreditation from officials of the Ontario Ministry of Health.

The accreditation program was first introduced by the Ministry last year, when the Ontario Council of Community Health Accreditation (OCCHA) was formed to draw up standards for the program. The Haliburton unit was surveyed by representatives from the OCCHA in January of this year, following the unit's application for accreditation last November.

According to Dr. Don

Mikel, a Medical Officer of Health for the Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge Unit, the concept of accreditation will soon be implemented in other parts of the country. Mikel told the gathering June 9 that the accreditation system in Ontario is currently the only one of its kind in the world.

Members of the OCCHA include public health workers, board of health members, administrators, nurses, nutritionists and medical officers from public health units throughout the province. The survey team sent by the OCCHA to the Haliburton unit in January conducted extensive interviews with staff members from all divisions in the district before conferring the accreditation status at the staff gathering two weeks ago.

Although the new status is not expected to affect funding for the unit, Mikel said during the meeting that the new designation could serve as an encouragement to industry considering locating in the district. Mikel also told the group that educational facilities could benefit from the health unit's new status as well.

Go crackers next week

Summcrackers, the musical entertainment which appeared in Minden last summer, returns again this year.

The show, sponsored by the Lake Ontario Regional Library System and local libraries will be appearing at a number of locations next week.

Summcrackers is a professional touring company which provides lively arts experiences in communities with limited or no arts facilities. Mary Griffin, actor and playwright, and Katharine Smithrim, singer and music educator, combine their talents again this summer, to encourage the participants to explore their own creative abilities. Everyone will be involved in the fun from tots to seniors.

Admission to Summer-crackers is free.

The program will take place at the following locations: June 29 - 2 p.m. Minden Library/Cultural Centre; 7 p.m. Stanhope Library. June 30 - 2 p.m. Haliburton Library; 7 p.m. Monmouth Library. July 1 - 2 p.m. Cardiff Library.

ONTARIO'S NEW HUMAN RIGHTS CODE BECAME LAW JUNE 15

Our new Code is based on a very simple but strong idea: Each person living in this province is equally important. And each person's worth and dignity should be recognized in order to create a climate of mutual respect and understanding.

Here are some of the main points of the new Code:

RACIAL, ETHNIC AND RELIGIOUS DISCRIMINATION. Everyone has a right to equal consideration for employment, contracts, accommodation, goods, services and facilities regardless of race, colour, ancestry, ethnic origin, place of origin or creed.

HANDICAP. Every person with a physical or mental handicap has a right to equal treatment under the Code.

EMPLOYMENT. The Code has been expanded to prohibit discrimination against handicapped persons, persons between the ages of 18 and 65, and against persons on the ground of family status.

HARASSMENT. Every person has a right to freedom from harassment because of any of the prohibited grounds in accommodation and employment. And unwelcome sexual advances by persons in a position of authority are prohibited.

The Code elaborates these and many other provisions, and permits exceptions in certain cases. We'd like to send you a copy, and your own guide to the Code so that you can find out all the details. Please write: Ontario Human Rights Commission, Queen's Park, Toronto, Ontario M7A 1A2. Or phone: (416) 750-3575.

And see how the new Code supports another very simple but strong idea: Together We Are Ontario.

County endorses severance fee hike

The fee for land severance applications may soon go as high as $200 if the County of Hastings has its way. Haliburton county council has endorsed a motion by the neighbouring county calling for the 100 per cent increase to the existing land severance application fee of $100.

The new fee, which is intended to reflect the high administrative costs of processing severance applications, is the second in six months to be proposed by Hastings county. Late last year, at the request of Hastings, the province agreed to raise the severance fee from $50 to $100, and Hastings has now begun a new campaign for a further jump in the cost of severance applications.

County clerk-treasurer Win Lahay says the work necessary to process a severance application has increased so much in recent years that application fees, which were as low as $25 in 1971, have not been high enough to cover administrative costs incurred by county governments in carrying out the severances. "The procedures involved in processing a severance are so complicated that you practically have to be a Philadelphia lawyer to figure it out," Lahay said in discussing severance procedures with The Times following last Wednesday's meeting of county council. "Probably a full half of my work for the county goes towards processing severance applications, and Hastings is suggesting this increase to help cover costs which are not provided in the county budget," Lahay explained.

Lahay also pointed out that when the costs of land severances exceeds that budgeted by the county Land Division, the additional expenditures must be borne by tax payers, and not by any individuals applying for severances.

Dysart reeve Murray Fearrey upheld the same point of view during debate on the Hastings resolution Wednesday, but his stand on the issue was not shared by all members of county council. While Fearrey told councillors that he "saw no reason for the county to subsidize people buying land" by bearing the administrative costs of severances, Stanhope reeve Jim Harrison told the group that the new fee could place added stress on young people buying land. "I can understand and agree with Mr. Fearrey," Harrison told the group, "but a young person starting out now is in rough shape already. If severance fees keep going up, all fees may soon suffer the same fate, and there'll be no telling where it will end."

According to Monmouth reeve Keith Tallman, however, the county's resolution supporting Hastings will not necessarily raise the fee to $200, but will only set an upper limit that the county can bring into effect if the number of applications warrants the increase. Lahay told the meeting that last year's increase to $100 covered the cost of severance applications received that year, but fewer applications are expected for 1982. "I'm sure this year we'll stay within budgeted expenditures for land severance," Lahay said after the meeting.

If Hastings' motion is passed by the province, the new ceiling will be in effect soon, and while the increase is not yet definite, current trends suggest that the fee could eventually be raised in Haliburton County.

Hustlers break Lindsay's streak

The Rockcliffe Hustlers have broken the Lindsay York Tavern winning streak, and they did it in style.

The Hustlers demolished the visitors Wednesday (June 16) at the Minden diamond by a 15-4 score. The loss was the first for the year for the Lindsay team.

The Minden nine wasted no time in getting on the scoreboard. With several men on base due to a walk and two singles, Dave Dollo slammed a triple to bring home three big runs in the opening inning.

From that point on there was no looking back for the Hustlers. They grabbed three more runs in the second inning, another three in the fifth and a pair in the sixth. Three were the result of a home run from the bat of Bob Johnson.

Pitcher Jack Snell was in control all the way as he picked up his second win of the year. He also added three hits for the cause. The losing pitcher was Dan Ellicott.

It is a busy week for the Hustlers, but unfortunately unless their local fans want to do some travelling they won't see the team until next Wednesday, June 30. Tonight the team travels to Bobcaygeon for a game. They are in Lindsay Sunday for a double header and play in Lindsay again Tuesday evening.

The action resumes at the Minden diamond June 30 when they meet Woodville. Game time is 8 p.m.

When Rev. Burgess was asked to take the service in Minden Gospel Church, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thompson took the service in the Chapel here, so we wouldn't be left in the lurch. We thank them both for coming. We think they are really grand, always more than willing to give a helping hand.

We watched three interesting movies here Monday night. Linda had trouble with the machine before she got it right.

Rev. Miller took the service in the Chapel this June day. Fred Ballard played the music, while Mrs. Taylor is away. Rev. Miller spoke on Jesus - said "follow me and I will make you fishers of men." It was nice having Mr. Miller take the service again. Tuesday night is music night, and I have said before. The Watson - Smith trio came to entertain some more. They played some real toe tapping tunes that were simply grand. Then they played some lovely hymns like "Amazing Grace", "How Great Thou Art" and hymns like "Beulah Land".

Doris attended a seminar for a few days last week. She's back with us again with dimples in her cheeks.

Millie Wood spent a few days in her home in Haliburton. Where it is located I'm not really certain. She is really missed when she isn't here. Mrs. Deumo has been having trouble with a real sore ear.

The Shorters spent a few days in their town house, to entertain their daughter from the sunny south, and their granddaughter from Seattle, Wash. They had a real nice visit and also a lot of fun.

Our head cook, Mark Schell, he is quite a guy. Well to tell you this I must. When we sat down to dinner, we had pie with a double crust.

They are taking Ruby Lewis to hospital for tests. Whatever they do, we will hope for the best.

Our gazebo building is being held up for red tape. We hope it won't be very long, before we see it taking shape.

Our nurses are real busy while most are in their prime, to stay and hold your hand awhile, they don't seem to have much time.

The tea party was served this afternoon by Minden UCW. They served it up so nicely, as if not to trouble you. It's nice to have these groups come in, every Thursday afternoon. Some think that after lunch is just a little too soon.

Congratulations to Ethel Boice on her ninety-second birthday. We would like to thank all who sent us cards, and best wishes on the occasion of our sixty-fourth wedding anniversary.

Friday morning Doris took us in the bus to Haliburton Legion Hall. The Parkers came along to see we didn't fall. Then on the way home they treated us to ice cream. Now that we are back again it seems just like a dream. Linda also came along to keep us out of trouble. If we hadn't behaved ourselves it would have cost us double. About one hundred and sixty guests sat down to lunch. We met some dear old friends of ours. They were a jolly bunch.

I would like to pay tribute here to the Robertson sisters, both Linda and Doris, who are always planning some recreation for us.

The Bingo Thursday night was put on by Mr. and Mrs. Lyle McKnight of the Kinsmen Club, and now I have a hunch, if we would ask them, they might stay to lunch.

Washington has Regan, Cash and Hope

Ottawa has Trudeau, no cash, no hope.

Women's Institute Report

- by Jeanne Sears -

The June 16th meeting of Minden Women's Institute took the form of a pot luck luncheon at the lovely home of the Jim Grants on Gull River. After the grace, all enjoyed the bountiful meal to which everyone had contributed.

When this was completed, chairs were set outside and Mrs. L. Cox, president, brought the meeting to order and read a verse "Best Garden Club".

Mrs. W. Moore reported sending 14 cards in the past while and collections for the Card Fund and Pennies for Friendship were taken.

There was a Sing Song and a Contest, "Walk in the Garden" won by Freda Hulbig (on a draw).

A letter, thanking us for a donation, came from Archie Stouffer Public School, telling us where the money was used.

Twenty one members answered the Roll Call and Mrs. Wilson Sr. was welcomed. Here we learned who had our name the past year and some took new Secret Pal names.

Thanks were given to Annie Kernohan for her work on the Bus Trip and to Doris Grant for having us here this day.

There was some discussion about increasing membership and making the meetings more interesting.

The meeting adjourned and the September meeting will be at the Common Room of the Library Cultural Centre on July 15 at 2 p.m. All ladies are welcome to come and join our branch.

I hope everyone saw the correction in Fred Dale's column, about the third Annual Flower Show, that the Minden and District Horticultural Society is having, August 12th and 13th at the Arena.

It had been stated the show was June 12 and 13.

So everyone that has a picture of this year's spring garden or rock garden that they would like to enter in the Flower Show, please send the pictures to Jean Lacey, Box 273, Minden.

Glenn Hall, Sheila and Jim Carrell and Barbara Elder visited Mosport on the weekend to see Tom Elder race in the Formula Ford and Formula Atlantic events.

Vera Ward is back home again after convalescing at the home of her daughter Mrs. Clark in Wilberforce. Her daughter Joan is visiting her at present.

I am sorry to report that Ivy Bolton of Lutterworth Pines is back in Scarborough Hospital. All her friends wish her a speedy recovery.

A very lovely kitchen shower was held on Saturday at the home of Ivy Bolton for Jacqueline Hamilton, daughter of Linda and Jim Hamilton, who will be married to Gary Smith in July. It was well attended and the couple received many gifts. After their marriage they will reside in Scarborough. Our best wishes to them both.

Mr. Alvin McCracken of Minden passed away last week I am sorry to report. Our deepest sympathy to his family and friends.

Fred Hewitt and children, and Neil Hewitt of Carlton Place, visited with their mother, Joyce Hewitt last week.

The Rummage Sale held at St. Paul's Parish Hall, last week was very successful. Refreshments were served and many items were sold.

The ladies of St. Paul's Parish are very busy on projects for the Summer Bazaar on July 10. Please don't forget the raffle tickets on sale for the Dresden Plate Quilt and the souvenir spoons with the picture of St. Paul's on the handles. Also the tickets on sale for the fishing tackle, the Coleman stove and the sleeping bag, being raffled by the men of St. Paul's, the proceeds to go towards the remaining debt owed by St. Paul's on the rectory.

Nora Hogg and daughter Sheila Austin visited Roger Hogg in Bracebridge on Monday.

Mrs. Schlosser and son Jim are leaving for a holiday in Calgary on Sunday.

Elsa Seuret, who was confined to Sunnybrook Hospital in Toronto last week, came back home on Tuesday. All her friends are happy to see her back again.

The Haliburton Home Support Services held their Senior Celebration last Friday. Their monthly meeting was held at 10:30 and then everyone adjourned to the Legion Auditorium for lunch. About 120 people attended. Guest speaker was Allan Cavell from the Community and Social Services, Ron Gambell, Warden of the County also spoke, and Cliff Dawson brought greetings from Bill Scott, M.P. The soloist was Marilyn Stouffer of Hall's Lake. After the luncheon, the guests visited the new office building on Maple Street by the river, where Reeve Murray Fearrey officiated at the ribbon cutting ceremonies. The guests were treated to a tour of the building and then served refreshments. Gar Lewis from CKCO TV, Kitchener, covered the event for the evening news.

Mr. Albert Knox of Oshawa visited with his sister-in-law Mrs. Mary Currah of Gelert last week. Mr. Knox enjoyed the beautiful country of the Highlands.

Grace and Lorne Coburn were in Toronto last week attending the Golden T Celebration held by the Alumni Assoc. of Toronto University on the 50th anniversary of Lorne as a Pharmacist. Dinner was held in the Great Hall in Hart House. After the ceremonies, Grace and Lorne went on to visit friends in Guelph and London.

Melissa Stephens' students gave a very successful music recital at Minden United Church last Sunday evening. Next Sunday, her Haliburton students will be performing at the Haliburton United Church at 7:00 p.m. Everyone is welcome.

A very happy birthday to Ada Lewis of Hyland Crest Senior Citizen's home, who will be celebrating her birthday on Sunday, June 27.

At this time I would like to thank Dr. Holliday-Rhodes, the wonderful nurses of Minden Red Cross Hospital, and the ambulance attendants who gave my father such great care this past week. Our deep appreciation to you all.

Please don't forget to visit the new art exhibit at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery in the Minden Cultural Centre. The exhibit consists of paintings by Dr. Jamieson and Walter Noice and is well worth viewing.

Jim Aelick returned last week from a very pleasant holiday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Aelick of Toronto, visiting Manitoulin Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Pritchard of Bracebridge visited Mrs. Taylor Kernohan this past weekend.

The following individuals have contributed to the fund organized by Reverend Miller to help families of servicemen injured or killed during the fighting in the Falkland Islands conflict: Mr. and Mrs. Ira Carter $25; Mr. Harry Pye $10.

kinmount klippings

Albert Crego dropped into T.J.'s this week and left the following rundown on the Dart Tournament in Zone F4, Branch 441, Royal Canadian Legion, Kinmount, held on June 12th.

With seventeen teams, consisting of Lindsay with 3, Haliburton with 5 and Kinmount with 9, Lindsay took the C. Bacon trophy for team winners.

Doubles won by Kinmount were: first, Pat Denomme and M. Denomme; second were John Windrum and Jim Swinson; singles won by Kinmount were: first, Pat Denomme and second Dwight Fountain.

Trophies were presented to all winners and a cash bonus was also won. The ladies of the Auxiliary catered with a tasty display of sandwiches, hamburgers, hotdogs, etc.

A good time was had by all and we thank all the gals and guys who participated.

Best wishes to Pat George who celebrated a birthday on June 12th. Thanks to Pat's son Tom, and mother-in-law Ann (Baba) George for relating the news.

Also celebrating his twelfth birthday on the same day, was Ken Shepston, a resident of Oshawa. Ken was here visiting with his Uncle Doug Pearson and Grandpa Shepston.

A new industry for Kinmount "Ontario Aquafoods Ltd." is happy to announce the opening of their new Naturbait and Pet Food manufacturing premises, adjoining T.J.'s Cafe and Variety.

The mainstay of Aquafoods will be the introduction of Naturbait, a completely natural, mouldable fish bait.

The inventor of this highly promising and totally revolutionary fishing aid, Stan Grodzinski, has chosen Kinmount for this venture and is hoping to expand in the near future.

We all congratulate Stan on his courage to enter the industrial set, at a time when all others are seeking ways out. Good luck Stan!

Franzen Masonry did it again! They overtook Gooderham's baseball team in a style you wouldn't believe. I don't know how, but keep doing what you're doing, it works!

Birthday wishes to Lawrence Anderson, son of Vivian and Ernie Anderson.

What has teeth but never eats?

A comb

What time is it when a hippopotamus sits on a chair?

Time to get a new one

What runs all around the pasture but never moves?

A fence

What do you get when you cross peanut butter with an elephant?

Either peanut butter that never forgets or an elephant that sticks to the roof of your mouth

When is it hard to get a ticket to the moon?

When it's full

What question can you never answer "yes" to?

Are you asleep

Bye for now. Take it easy. God bless till next time.
